This course will cover the key points of color theory and classic composition. Topics will include value, color harmony, color temperature, local color, complimentary color, the rule of thirds, the golden mean, etc... We will start by exploring Henry Hensche's use of colored blocks to train the artist's eye to detect the truth about light and color perception. We will progress to still life setups and photo reference materials to explore these topics further.

To Register: Send $200 now to hold your spot in this class, along with your contact information (phone #, email address, street address) to:
